Introduction/purpose

In a rapidly growing civil society culture in Bhutan, it has become critical for a regulatory organization to stay relevant in achieving the intended objectives of its roles. Therefore, it is important that the roles that each office bearer holds are outlined so that responsibilities become clear. This Governance Manual is one such mechanism through which a broad framework for the conduct of business in the governance of the Civil Society Organization Authority is established for the members to abide. Since the Authority is an independent regulatory Authority established under the Civil Society Organizations Act of Bhutan 2007 (“Act”), this Manual provides for the structure of the Authority and the powers and responsibilities of each office bearer and officers.

Part I

The Authority is also required to facilitate a constructive partnership between the Government and the CSOs in order to advance the public interest so that it can also contribute towards protection of national and public interest.

CSOs are required to benefit the public at large or particular sections of the public and in these endeavors, they are required to demonstrate and continue to increase CSOs value to the larger communities of which they form a part. Here the Authority is required to oversee the compliance of legal obligations of the CSOs to exercise effective control and management of their activities and funding.

1. Members of Authority

2. An eminent lawyer with knowledge and experience of laws relating to CSOs, who is recommended by the Attorney General (“Legal Member”);
3. Two eminent members representing the CSOs (“Civil Society Member A and Civil Society Member B” as identified in the first Board Meeting of any of the two members becoming an Authority member); and
4. A senior official from the Ministry of Home and Cultural Affairs, appointed by the Home Minister, who also serves as the Member Secretary of the Authority (“Executive Member”).
